

A Bleak Christmas for Stricken Collum Family

By FRANK LaPIERRE
You can be surrounded by the ones you love at Christmas and still be very much alone.

This appears to be the plight of Jackie Collum, mother of three young children — all afflicted with the rare and deadly "Batten's Disease."

The dread sickness has a degenerating effect on its victims, causing blindness, mental retardation and, eventually, death.

Mrs. Collum lives with the knowledge that any day another of her children will suffer the same fate as her daughter, Patty, who died five years ago at the age of 12 from Batten's Disease.

Things have gone from bad to worse for Mrs. Collum, who is determined to raise her own children in her home, rather than place them in an institution.

New state and county funded programs aimed at providing schooling for such children have been underway since last year in Daly City and the southern part of the county, it was learned.

Since its inception, Mrs. Collum has enrolled two of her children — K. C. (15) and Chuck (10) — in the special school located near the Cow Palace off Geneva Avenue.

However, in October, Mrs. Collum was informed that Chuck no longer would be welcome at the school because "he isn't responding to our program."

William Herbig, assistant superintendent for special education in the county, said Chuck's condition "has degenerated extensively" in the past year to a point where he can no longer benefit from the program.

Herbig feels Chuck should be receiving home or hospital treatment programs. There are programs available where the county and state pay the bills, Herbig said.

Mrs. Collum, incensed that her children have been terminated from the program, and that school officials have determined it necessary to strap her daughter into a wheelchair wearing a football-type helmet, wants both Chuck and K. C. to stay enrolled in the classes.

"They (the program directors) are harassing me because I've been one of their biggest critics... I'm branded a troublemaker by them," she told The Post.

Mrs. Collum said she pulled K. C. out of the program after she went to the school and found her daughter strapped into a wheelchair with the helmet on.

"The treatment (helmet, etc.) has affected K.C. psychologically, so I took her home," the distraught mother said.

The family home is at 213 Hillside Drive, Pacifica.

Another daughter, Chris, 9, attends a regular school and shows little sign of having the non-contagious disease.

"She is stable and is doing well. I'm keeping my fingers crossed," Mrs. Collum said. The disease seems to

Hospital's Critical Space Needs

$25 Million Expansion Plan

Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City has embarked on an ambitious expansion program that could cost upwards of $25 million, it was announced by Fund Director Bob McDonald this week.

On completion, the new wings would almost double the facility's capabilities, McDonald said.

There are no detailed plans available on the project as yet. However, the blue ribbon panel comprising the Expansion Fund Executive Committee, headed by San Franciscan Ben Swig, has committed itself to the project, it was explained.

Justification for the expansion can be seen in the number of patients and advances in medical technology experienced by Mary's Help in recent years.

Critical space needs are in such areas as laboratory, physical therapy, emergency rooms, administration, central processing, clinical research, in-service education, maintenance, nuclear medicine, nursing service, pharmacy, radiation therapy and surgery.

Laboratory patients alone have accounted for an increase of some 51 per cent since 1968; X-ray patients 49 per cent, and physical therapy cases were up during the same period by 47 per cent, records indicate.

Biggest jump, however, was in the emergency room patient load — up 63 per cent.

A breakdown in emergency cases reveals that in 1968, Mary's Help handled 16,600 admissions. Six years later, that load figure has skyrocketed to 26,909 patients.

"Our emergency facility is bursting at the seams with this load," a hospital official said.

New medical technology has also played a large part in convincing skeptics that in order to provide better and more complete service in all medical fields, more space is needed.

Ideally, the expansion would provide this much-needed space for the next two decades.

McDonald says the program would also expand parking for doctors, visitors and patients to some 800 spaces. It would also relocate the Daughters of Charity to a new building outside the main hospital structure.

The DOC will pay for this new structure, McDonald said.

Phase One of the overall plan, costing some $15-17 million, will relocate the hospital's Intensive Care Unit and Intensive Coronary Care unit to the main floor for better access.

On Jan. 13, 1975 — less than a month away — the hospital will kick off its fund raising program — a program that hopefully will raise $5 million over the next five years, McDonald said.

The remainder of the money would come through long-term loans.

All revenues, however, are to be raised through local services, such as pledges, donations and bequests.

"We're going to require a lot of volunteer help on this project," McDonald said. "I'm certain the community will respond."

It is the hope that new facilities employing new medical techniques will help cut the cost of patient treatment.

More use of out-patient facilities — where a person remains in the hospital a minimum length of time for minor surgery — is favored by medical authorities now.

Mary's Help Hospital has come a long way since its inception in 1852 as a small hospital caring for cholera victims on the site where the Sheraton Palace Hotel is now located on Market Street in San Francisco.

Construction of a larger facility was started in the Mission District of San Francisco in 1896, but before it was completed, the Great Earthquake of 1906 destroyed it.

In 1912, Mary's Help Hospital opened its doors on Guerrero Street in the Mission District and remained there until Dec. 12, 1965 when it moved to Daly City.

It is Daly City's largest employer.

The Year in Review

City Grapples With Signs, Transportation

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The greatest controversy of 1974 in Daly City was a proposed sign ordinance which promised sweeping and dramatic changes in the previous law.

After numerous discussions on the issue — some surpassing the boiling point — the law was cooled by adding an ample supply of water.

Finally, in late fall, merchants, outdoor sign representatives and the city staff agreed on provisions of the proposed law. It was then brought before the city's Planning Commission.

Public hearing followed staff meetings with business groups in an all-out effort to hammer the agreement into a plausible and palatable ordinance that help rid the city's business districts of "eyesore signs."

Planning Commissioners passed the law onto the City Council, which is expected to act early in the new year.

The past year saw Daly City as active on all fronts — government, business and civil — as it has been in its more than 60 year history.

At the start of the year 1974, the Bay Area Rapid Transit station, on John Daly Drive, was touted as being a catalyst for new businesses to relocate in the station area.

At the same time, BART was proving to be the creator of a monster known as "The Parking Thing."

Twelve months later, there has been no new businesses relocated around the station, and officials note that there has not been any appreciable increase in business revenues as a result of BART.

They do say that the parking problem is worse than ever.

Business groups, individuals and city officials have been seeking answers to the parking problem.

New lots have been acquired by the city for parking in the Mission Street area; plans are underway to locate a 450 car parking lot west of the BART station, and; BART, has entered into a joint venture with Daly City to construct a multi-level garage for 1,900 cars — some 1,100 more than can now park around the facility.

This garage, will not be open for at least two years, engineers say.

While the traffic situation in the Mission-Junipero Serra Boulevard area is snarled beyond belief, plans for redevelopment of this once-booming business district are moving ahead.

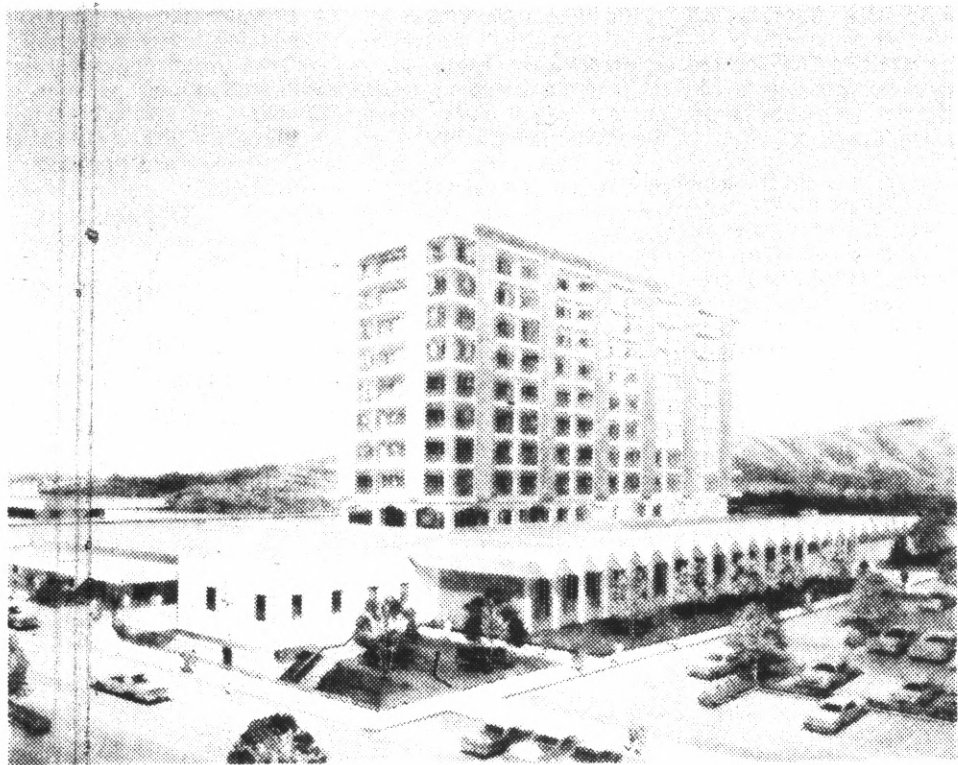

In 1974, a preliminary plan which strictly regulates any developments, remodeling or land use projects for the Redevelopment Project Area, was adopted first by a 24 member Project Area Committee, headed by local businessman Frank Spadarella, and then by the city's five member Planning Commission, chaired by Edward O'Donnell.

The city also moved to hire a consultant to map plans and gather data on the target areas. A committee of local citizens was formed to whittle a list of applicants before presenting it to the City Council for a selection.

A minor furor was kicked off when it was revealed (in the Times and Post) that a councilman and redevelopment director, Paul Hupf, along with his law partner, had purchased a dilapidated

Annexation of Blossom Valley Under Study

The City Council and staff of Daly City were scheduled to work late into the night Monday to clean the slate before Christmas of all pending matters.

Expected to be discussed was the proposed annexation of the Blossom Valley development in the west foothills of San Bruno Mountain, near the John F. Kennedy School on Guadalupe Canyon Parkway.

Part of the development would be in Daly City and the remainder on unincorporated county lands.

Councilman Victor Kyriakis, learned last week that the Octagon Gallery on the second floor of city Hall was to be discontinued and asked for suggestions on how to keep the art gallery open, perhaps with local talent.

"It's a good thing for the city," Kyriakis said.

Staff was looking into the matter at the request of Kyriakis.

An appeal filed by taxicab operator Dottie Huana was to be continued until a later meeting.

She has appealed the denial of issuance of a taxi operator's permit, pointing out the fact she had previously had such a permit while working in San Francisco.

Daly City police have asked the council to deny the issuance.

They will present justification for their action at a later date, it was learned.

Robert M. Riechel's complaint against the local cable television system was to be heard.

Riechel said in a letter dated Dec. 4, 1974, he has been unable to get any "meaningful response" (sic) from his many complaints to Vista Grande Cable TV.

"For at least one month I have almost nightly been unable to receive one or more channels," Riechel wrote.

He wants the council to cancel the CATV contract.

The council will act on a use permit request for expansion of the North San Mateo County Sanitation Plant at Lake Merced Blvd. and John Daly Ave. in Daly City.

The multi-million dollar expansion program will give secondary treatment to wastewater and bring it up to standards directed by the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

TV Star, Firm Sued on Ads

The San Mateo County District Attorney's office joined with the San Francisco D.A.'s office Wednesday in filing a civil consumer protection suit against Matthew's TV and Stereo City at 640 Mission St., Daly City and against TV personality Tom Campbell charging them with false and misleading advertising and unfair competition.

Campbell and Steven M. David of San Rafael, president of the firm, are named principal defendants, according to Deputy District Atty. Margaret Kemp, while David's wife, Gale, and his brother, Anthony P. David of San Francisco, are also named as defendants in the suit which seeks $750,000 in civil penalties and asks that the firm be enjoined from using its present advertising practices.

Miss Kemp said Campbell, who hosts a TV bowling show, was named on the grounds he was aware his advertising broadcasts were untrue.

"The suit climaxes an extensive investigation by the consumer fraud units of both counties," Miss Kemp reported. "The investigation was triggered by a consumer complaint in which he complained he had been the victim of the 'bait and switch technique.'"

According to Miss Kemp, a color television was advertised for $199, but when the customer arrived, Matthew's had none in stock. A salesman managed to sell the victim a set for $494, however, she reported.

The following day the victim heard the same $199 advertisement for the TV, she reported.

Fraud investigators, checking the validity of Matthew's advertisement, turned up 36 instances of false advertising and deception in three weeks, they reported.

"In addition to the continuous unavailability of advertised products," Miss Kemp reported, "a 'Big Screen' television turned out to be 12 inches; a salesman stated that a highly-advertised record turntable would 'ruin all your records in a week. They call it the lathe.'"

Miss Kemp reported a salesman told one customer that Zenith TV sets were inferior because they were made in Korea

Daly City Woman Stabbed; Boyfriend Held for Assault

A Daly City woman was in stable condition today at Mary's Help Hospital after she was stabbed in the abdomen allegedly by her boyfriend during a street argument.

Sharon Payne, 22, of 166 Parkview Ave., told police her boyfriend, James Jackson, also of 166 Parkview Ave., came home shortly after midnight with two male friends and a woman companion.

According to the victim, someone suggested the five have a "party" and when Miss Payne refused, Jackson chased her out of the house and down the street.

Near the corner of Westlake and Miriam Streets, Jackson allegedly kicked and beat Miss Payne, finally stabbing her in the abdomen, police said former ambulance company office.

Officials have explained that the coming year will see work on a final redevelopment plan for Mission Street and Junipero Serra Boulevard that likely will spark more controversy.

No one in city government would say what the plan might contain.

A new city department, called the Community Development Department, was established under the acting directorship of former assistant to the city manager, Don Fleming.

This department will be an umbrella agency for planning, housing and redevelopment, according to City Manager David Rowe.

There is the possible annexation of the so-called Crocker Tract on Reservoir Hill in the coming year.

This development, if realized, would contain between 490 and 1,000 housing and apartment units.

The total size of the development is contingent on monies available, officials explain.

Annexation of the tract, within the Redevelopment Project Area, could mean a substantial increase in revenues for Daly City, Rowe believes.

There has not been a General Plan for Daly City since 1968.

At that time the city adopted proposals of a citizen committee. Cost of the plan was some $105,000, with the city and federal government sharing the cost.

Rowe said a 50 member citizens committee would be formed in January to work with the planning department in revising the existing plan, which many think is outdated.

In early December, a dispute broke out between Northgate Transit Co. and the newly formed Daly City Transit Systems, Inc., over who could best serve the city.

Northgate has had an operating franchise issued by the State Public Utilities Commission for more than ten years.

In November, a simmering feud between Northgate's drivers and the franchise holder came to a boil and the drivers left to form their own company.

Northgate hired San Bruno attorney George Corey and brought in several "new" buses and drivers to service routes in the city.

At last report, the PUC had leaned in favor of Northgate and the county Superior Court had issued a temporary restraining order to Daly City Transit Systems, Inc. to cease operating on Northgate's routes.

And while Daly City entered into an agreement with Crocker Industrial Park to provide police and fire service to that complex on the easterly side of San Bruno Mountain, there has been no change in the political atmosphere concerning which city — Brisbane or Daly City — eventually will annex the undeveloped mountain that one day might provide housing and support services for some 25,000 people.

The Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) last year put the mountain into Brisbane's sphere of influence. However, some Daly City officials say they will continue to press for the mountain to be in Daly City.

Putting the Cow Palace in a category where it will be required to pay Daly City a tax on events held there is still hung up in the Legislature.

Assemblyman Louis J. Papan said last year he would push a law to have the Cow Palace pay this tax.

Serramonte Reservoir 5B, engineered by William Chapman of San Francisco, was completed in mid-1974 at a cost of $1.45 million.

Water service in the area has substantially improved, experts agree.

TOT LOT

Staff Planner Don Ciucci (right) and Parks, Recreation and Maintenance director Charles Vincent recheck final plans for Camelot Tot Lot — one of the city's seven tot lots.

This is the largest underground water reservoir in the city and will have 10 tennis courts, a locker room and landscaping on the top.

Funds for the courts come from federal revenue sharing monies.

On Dec. 23, 1974, the $750,000 joint venture Westmoor High School-Daly City Recreation Department swim pool opened.

First man in the pool was Councilman Anthony Giammona, who also is athletic director of Westmoor.

Giammona took the plunge on Dec. 16, 1974, witnesses report.

The pool was plagued with setbacks for some three years.

It was in the planning and discussion stage for almost eight years before becoming a reality.

During the year, builder Fred Gellert died.

For some ten years, he and his brother, Carl, made donations to the city's recreational fund to be used throughout the city and not just at their Serramonte Housing development.

The brothers also donated 23 acres of property in the Serramonte area to be developed into a park.

It was accepted and named "Gellert Park."

In 1974, representatives of Carl and Fred Gellert donated $10,000 to the recreational fund, bringing the total money donated to $160,000 over the past decade.

A clubhouse is scheduled to be built at the park site at a cost of $120,000, Rowe said.

Of this amount, the Serramonte Homeowners' Association will put up $10,000, Daly City $40,000 from Federal funds, and, the Gellert Foundation some $70,000, it was learned.

The old year saw the Garden Valley District of the city relieved of a flood problem it had lived with for many years.

Daly City and San Mateo County completed construction of a huge storm drain system through the valley, and officials predict "no more flooding for Garden Valley."

Computerization of police records was pushed throughout the past year. But the project is far from complete, it was revealed.

Federal revenue sharing funds in the amount of $55,000 have been earmarked for this system.

Police explain that their effectiveness could be enhanced once this system is in effect.

Undergrounding of utility wires along Mission street (cost $250,000) was completed in April.

A use permit was granted in December to the North San Mateo County Sanitation District to expand its facility at Lake Merced and John Daly Drive.

The plant in the future will provide secondary treatment to wastewater, thereby turning it into a saleable product for use by golf clubs, cemeteries and parks.

The formation "Information & Referral Center," now the Community Service Center, was supported by the city in the past year at a cost of some $32,000.

In the coming year, the center will include in its services an employment section designed to aid jobseekers.

Cost of this expansion (some $56,430, plus $45,000 for the center) will be funded with federal revenue sharing money.

Daly City's budget last year went up 7.4 per cent — to $10.6 million. However the tax rate was lowered one cent.

Last March, three City Council seats went up for grabs.

Longtime councilman and former mayor, Bernard J. Lyvett, was defeated in his fourth bid for the City Council post by attorney William Schumacher.

Mayor McRobert Stewart and attorney Victor Kyriakis were re-elected.

Other projects and their costs:

- Lincoln Park expansion. Five homes purchased. ($222,000)

- Lincoln Park Clubhouse expansion to double current size ($101,000)

- Serramonte Library under construction. To open in April 1975 ($490,000)

- Elevator for civic center building to comply with new laws concerning elderly and handicapped persons ($70,000)

- Three tot lots — Camelot, Hampshire and Norwood — completed.

- Fire Department Headquarters in Serramonte opened in 1974.

- San Fernando Way, long needed for widening to start in 1975 ($250,000)

Westmoor Pool Project OK'd; Serramonte Next?

The Westmoor Swimming Pool project was officially approved by the Jefferson Union High School trustees Dec. 17, and one trustee said his next goal will be "to build a pool at Serramonte."

The Westmoor pool was to be ready Aug. 27, but was stalled 78 days due to an assortment of problems. According to the KCA Engineers the major causes of the delay were inclement weather, changes in piping, an oil tank removal, and a roofing strike. Other reasons cited included Health Department required changes in the pool inlets, and a roof and carpenters' strike.

At the board meeting, the trustees accepted the notice of completion for the project, but withheld the additional sum of $2,400 for 100 per cent less than 10 per cent retention because minor work on the pool is still needed.

Floyd Gonella, associate superintendent of educational services, said the 78 day extension granted by the trustees was reasonable, and that the pool structure was well planned.

In keeping with earlier promise, Gonella said the pool would be used immediately instead of waiting for the official pool dedication, which will possibly be held in January.

Board members were happy to get the project completed, and trustee Albert Teglia said that his next goal will be to get a pool at Serramonte. "If I'm on the board long enough," he said, "I want a pool at all the schools."

The board also gave permission to architect James Coke to proceed with the working drawings for the Terra Nova High School Tennis Courts project.

Coke, of Corwin Booth and Associated Architects, said he would ask the district to go to bid at the next meeting.

Coke presented the trustees with a preliminary cost estimate of $208,000 for the project. The construction, including the courts, lighting and electric service was priced at $198,000. An architect's fee, checking fee, construction tests and inspections costs $18,000 and another $22,000 would be in contingencies.

The plans call for eight tennis courts, though Coke admitted there could be less depending on the eventual costs.

The possibility that there may be less than eight courts came up at the Nov. 26 joint meeting between the school board and the Pacific City Council. At that time, Pacifica Mayor Aubrey Lumley reminded trustees that the recently passed bond issue was sold to the voters on the basis of eight courts.

Coke also told the trustees that the courts could not be completed probably until June, even if the bid is made in January, because of the probability of wet weather that would stall the laying of the resilient surface.

GARAGE FIRES

Costly fires continued to plague the city through 1974. Most were touched off by persons working on or refueling cars inside home garages. Battalion Chief Mel Hansen surveys damage to one such home.

Broadmoor Church Services Set Sunday

A sermon on "Christianity — Past, Present and Future" will be preached this Sunday at the 10 a.m. worship service at the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, 377-87th St. Daly City.

The sermon is given by Bill Powers, a layman of the church with Leon France, another churchman, presiding at the service. Others participating are Dale Powers and Homer Boone with the ushering being done by Tony Addad, Lou Haan, Glenn Huffaker and Earl Sommers.

This service is sponsored by the Mariners, the church organization for married couples of which Leon and Pat France are the Skippers and Bill and Dale Powers are the Chaplains.

Other couples are First Mates, Yoemen, Pursers, Chefs, Lookouts, Deck Hands and Navigators. The Mariners meet for dinner and a program the first Saturday evening of each month.

DC Fire Officials Fear Arson

Fire officials in Daly City fear there is a fire bug on the loose in the eastern section of the city known as "Old Daly City."

This disclosure was made in the wake of a fire which mysteriously broke out in an apartment garage area shortly before 4 a.m. Saturday.

It was the third such fire in the area — all under similar circumstances, according to Battalion Chief Lyle Church.

The latest fire was touched off at 80 Chester St. apartment building.

It destroyed a car and damaged a storage locker. Estimated damage was set by investigators at $200.

A similar fire in a garage storage locker was extinguished earlier at 666 Sylvan Ave., Church said.

There are 96 children enrolled in the school funded under Title V monies. There were no available figures on how many wore helmets or were in wheelchairs.

"They say it took three persons to watch after Chuck every day. That's nonsense. I am alone and I take care of three children," Mrs. Collum said.

Mrs. Collum said she has retained attorney Terry Ross to represent her in a public hearing on the issue before the County Board of Education in Redwood City at 8 p.m., Jan. 16.

Ross contends the order handed down by the program's Admissions and Discharge Committee regarding Chuck is illegal under guidelines of the program.

strike boys faster and harder than it does girls.

Mrs. Collum said if the school wanted to expel one of her children, "it should have been K. C. and not Chuck."

According to Mrs. Collum, K. C. is worse off than Chuck.

Not so, according to Herbig and others connected with the program.

"Chuck has been deteriorating at a very rapid rate," Herbig said.

Mrs. Collum argues that K. C. has been to Mary's Help Hospital for minor injuries — including five stitches on her nose after she fell against a post at the school recently — twice in three years. Chuck has been there only once.

The instructors at the facility justified their action in placing helmets on both children, pointing out that all children susceptible to convulsions, or having mobility problems, must wear helmets to prevent injuries.

"If we knew a child had these problems and he fell and fractured his skull, it could be easily proven we were not doing our job of protecting that child," Herbig says.

On Oct. 23, Gary Hersh, head teacher at the school, sent Mrs. Collum a letter explaining why Chuck would be required to wear a helmet and why he would be strapped in a wheel chair if he could not walk.

Two days later, on Oct. 25, Chuck was discharged.

There are 96 children enrolled in the school funded under Title V monies. There were no available figures on how many wore helmets or were in wheelchairs.

"They say it took three persons to watch after Chuck every day. That's nonsense. I am alone and I take care of three children," Mrs. Collum said.

County Justice Council Hears Crime Profile

The average burglar in four cities in North San Mateo County is a white male between the ages of 14 and 20, and he rifles a victim for goods between $200 and $400.

That's the report given Wednesday to the Criminal Justice Council of San Mateo County by Capt. Frank Hedley of the San Bruno Police Department, spokesman for the North County Consolidated Crime Prevention Program.

Cities involved in the three-year, federally financed grant program are Daly City, San Bruno, Pacifica and South San Francisco. The grant began its second year in October.

A first year report was given by Hedley to the Criminal Justice Council, meeting in San Carlos.

It stated that an actual decrease in burglaries in the four cities attributable to implementation of the prevention techniques approached by the four-detective unit is not expected until 1975.

Nonetheless, the fiscal year 1973-74 showed a decline in projected burglaries in Daly City, Pacifica and San Bruno, and an increase of estimates in South San Francisco, according to the 60-page report.

Purpose of the project is to reduce the burglary rate in the four cities by meeting with citizens and organizations and convincing them to implement various crime prevention techniques.

While the projected number of burglaries in three of the four cities did not materialize, residential burglaries in each of the cities during the first project year remained constant with the year prior to the project. "Thus, one area of emphasis is informing homeowners of good residential security through presentations at clubs and organizations," the report urged.

The report also provides statistics on the number (and increase or decrease) of burglaries per tract in the four communities, which was one of the objectives during the first year of the grant.

For example, burglary rate increases in some of the cities were traced to new apartment house construction.

At the same time, the detectives of the unit told of how several apartment complexes have begun their own security staff to curb crime.

One neighborhood in Pacifica, which has experienced growth via apartment complex development, was criticized in the report for lacking concern about security.

Increased burglaries in San Bruno's Pacifica Heights area were attributed to a nearby shopping center as well as Skyline Community College. Besides, most of the areas residents "are young and work during the daylight hours, making this area a prime target for the daytime burglar," the report said.

SSF Shoreline Park Voted

The Bay Conservation and Development Commission Thursday approved creation of new shoreline park in South San Francisco.

The BCDC told a South San Francisco developer he must remove 32 bayside parking spaces from a lot to provide access to the two-mile open area.

The City of South San Francisco previously had approved the park.

Now, Peninsula residents can look forward to two miles of bay shoreline open for fishing, hiking, bird-watching and picknicking.

The BCDC staff recommended that a portion of the parking lot be removed for public access. Bill Poland, an official of the developer Cabot, Cabot and Forbes, argued that the parking lot would not block access and even if it did, that access did not require the removal of that many parking spaces. The commissioners, however, denied his plea and ordered all 32 spaces removed.

According to BCDC Executive Director

Charles Roberts, the parking lot — built to serve a large industrial building — has approximately 250 spaces, of which some 70 are within the 100-foot wide band along the bay, within BCDC jurisdiction.

It was not until after the warehouse and parking lot were completed that a BCDC staff inspection revealed that 720-square feet of the building, as well as 40,000 square feet of the parking lot, were built in violation of BCDC regulations. Thursday, BCDC approved both the building and the parking lot, but with the series of conditions, including removal of the 32 spaces and providing public access and landscaping along the shoreline.

The warehouse is just north of Point San Bruno, at the end of Forbes Boulevard, at the southern end of the new parks boundaries.

The commission also approved a joint application of RWL Investments Inc., and CC&F, to build a truck terminal parking lot for Di Salvo Trucking Co. north of Oyster Point Boulevard. Here too, the conditions include providing landscaped public access along the shoreline.

It had been this site that the BCDC's first cease and desist order was filed, a few weeks ago, against grading contractor Arthurs "Buzz" Haskins.

Both Haskins and CC&F officials claimed, in both cases, that they did not realize they were working within the 100-foot shoreline band.

The shoreline park boundaries had been on the city's books for some years. However, it was not until CC&F had applied to build in an area designated for the park, that it was realized that much of the park's boundaries were out in the bay, and would require considerable bay fill to construct.

The new boundaries include a 100-foot wide band both north and south of the Oyster Point Marina, except for one area where a firm, Healy-Tibbitts, has granted an easement across land, in exchange for keeping some of its shoreline. There are no plans for development of the park, by the city, at this time.

SSF Sidewalk Policy Keys Council Debate

South San Francisco's new policy of requiring the property owner to pay for sidewalk repairs caused some heat at Wednesday night's City Council meeting.

The discussion was prompted by an article in a local newspaper detailing the hardships that the new procedure would bring upon homeowners.

Councilman Leo Padreddi noted that he had voted against forcing homeowners to pay for their sidewalks when the new procedure was adopted last summer.

"Half of Brentwood got new sidewalks at no cost to the property owner," he said, "and now others will have to pay for it themselves."

Padreddi charged that the city had neglected sidewalks through the years, when the city had to pay for them. Although homeowners complained about the condition of the sidewalks, he said the city often postponed repairing them.

"The city should first have fixed those sidewalks before fixing the responsibility upon the property owners," he declared.

City Manager Ed Alario said according to the new sidewalk policy:

• The city will not inspect all sidewalks in the city within a year. It lacks the manpower. "If we complete the program in five to seven years we will be doing very well."

• The city has not settled on an inspection procedure, but is still working on it.

• The city does not plan to give the owner just five days to pay for repairs and then place a lien upon the property as has been reported. It will more likely allow 60 to 90 days to make payment.

"In no way," Alario declared, "do I want to work a hardship upon an individual. We are not going to be hardnosed."

Mayor Terry Mirri sided with Padreddi.

"To be consistent," he declared, "we should have fulfilled our own responsibility."

Councilman Frank Mammini, however, defended the new program.

"There never has been a law that the city pays for fixing a sidewalk. It just grew like Topsy. If someone wanted to, he could slap a taxpayer's suit on the city for spending public funds on private property. We could use beautification funds for painting houses. You must draw the line somewhere."

Mirri, however, insisted that a sidewalk was of a "quasi-public nature."

Alario explained that the city was becoming strapped for funds, and was thus adopting the benefit system — "those who benefit for a service should pay for it."

Frank Addiego, director of public services, noted that state law required the city to inspect sidewalks. If someone was hurt on a sidewalk, that person could sue the city, or the property owner.

Tax Vote: SSF Trustees 'To Tell It Like It Is'

Aware of criticisms that the voters at the recent election were not told specifically what the effects of an unsuccessful tax measure would be, the South San Francisco Unified School District board of trustees want to tell it like it is this time.

The board approved the ballot argument in favor of the tax measure Thursday that will go into the voter's handbook for the March 4 election, and trustee Thomas Henkle said it was more of a "sledge hammer" approach and "not the velvet glove technique that we got criticized for last time."

The statement, written in question and answer style, begins by explaining the basics of the proposition. It points out that the measure will raise another $95 per pupil for each year, and that it will cost a taxpayer with a $40,000 home about $35 a year or $3 a month.

In answer to the question of "What if you vote no?" it says that "programs and services will suffer severe cutbacks."

It then lists some cutbacks that the Community Finance Study Committee will be considering, including transportation, after school athletic programs, nursing services, counseling, psychological services and cafeteria services.

Meanwhile, the Citizen's Advisory Committee provided a preliminary report in which 16 of the group's members voted on placing some of the possible cuts according to priority.

The top four choices were a hiring freeze on all personnel, an increase of class sizes, encouraging people who desire to take leave to do so, and a contract freeze on all administrative personnel not on the salary schedule.

A final report is to be made by that committee Jan. 16.

The board also recommended that the patrons of the district be informed that "ours is not a plush program, but a program that is being run at much less expense than neighboring school districts." It was also pointed out that the voters should recognize that the district is doing a good job, but that it can't continue to without help.

Another recommendation was that the public be made aware of the financial problems of the school district through all possible legitimate and legal avenues. That feeling was emphasized in the votes of trustee Ken Austin to oppose requests from Superintendent Paul Nielsen to attend the Annual American Association of School Administrators at Dallas, and from Los Cerritos Principal Emanuele Damonte to attend the International Reading Association's Far Western Conference in Reno.

The board, though, voted 4-1 to approve the requests. Austin made it clear that he was not objecting to Damonte, who has been "a credit to the district," but that he had "an eye on the severe financial picture." Austin did not make any comments before voting against the superintendent's trip.

The cost for either trip was not known at the meeting.

In another matter, the board took steps to help alleviate the crowded conditions at Westborough Junior High and Avalon Elementary Schools.

The plan accepted by the trustees will send students from certain designated areas to either Foxridge or Monte Verde E+1/2 elementary Schools and to Southwood Junior High.

According to the administration, the move will "provide Westborough and Avalon with relief from the anticipated influx of students created by the present and planned construction."

Students affected will be those from the new housing developments of Braewood, Westborough Villa, Westborough Hills and Green View Commons.

Students from the partially completed Braewood development are presently attending Foxridge and Westborough. Those attending Westborough would have the option of either continuing or transferring to Southwood. Braewood has 107 of its planned 295 units completed and occupied.

At the Westborough Villa project, which is still under construction, plans are for students there to attend Foxridge, Monte Verde and Southwood. The development is to have 168 units ready in the Spring.

Westborough Hills students living on the north side of Greendale Drive and the west side of Haussman Drive will attend the two elementary schools and Southwood. A total of 386 units there are occupied now out of a planned 480.

At Green View Commons, where there are few children, students will be sent to Foxridge or Monte Verde and Southwood.

Avalon has the highest elementary enrollment with 693 pupils and Westborough the top junior high enrollment with 920.

The board also adopted a policy that a person could serve on only two citizen's committees in the district. The action was an attempt to encourage more people to participate in the numerous committees.

Initially, the trustees were considering limiting a person to just one committee, but changed that when it was pointed out that it could be difficult finding enough members for all the groups.

Trustee James Christensen, in speaking for the need of citizen participation, said, "There's 52,000 people in this town and one-half of them have students in this district. We have to get them involved and get the load off of the people who have been here for a long time."

Fassler Appointed To State Agency

San Mateo County Supervisor Jean Fassler was appointed to the Executive Board of the statewide association of California Local Agency Formation Commissions at a recent meeting in San Francisco.

The statewide association is active in legislation on behalf of LAFCOs, sponsors seminars and workshops, and meets four to six times annually throughout the State.

The five-member Executive Board is structured along the lines of local LAFCOs, and Mrs. Fassler will be filling one of two slots designated for County Supervisors.

Mayor Helen Putnam of Petaluma presently chairs the Board which includes Bert Bond, vice-mayor of Long Beach; Supervisor Jack J. Madigan of Butte County, and public member Carole Friedrich of Nevada County.

Also San Mateo County Supervisor William H. Royer has been elected 1975 president of the Central Coast Regional Association of County Supervisors.

Supervisor Dale Dawson of Santa Cruz County was elected to the Association vice-presidency, and a secretary-treasurer will be named at a later date.

Board Leader to be Seated

Marilyn Haupt, newly elected president of the Pacifica-Coastside Board of Realtors will be among those participating in an organizational and installation meeting of the California Association of Realtors at the Hilton Hotel in San Francisco Jan. 9-11.

Others attending from the Pacifica-Half Moon Bay area include Marvin Schneider, Marc Realty; Bob Rowell, Konrad vom Emster and Wally Sharp of Dolphin Real Estate and Ethel Lebonville, Board Executive Officer, all of whom serve with Mrs. Haupt on several of the 40 some statewide committees which will meet on Thursday and Friday at the Hilton.

On Jan. 10, Richard C. Farrer of Hayward will be installed as the 68th president of CAR at an inaugural dinner. The ceremonies will include installation of E. Thornton Ibbetson of Bellflower as treasurer, Ira Gribin of Sherman Oaks as first vice president and Zan Beckstead as executive vice president and state secretary for his sixth term.

Sewing Operations Expanding

Linen Shortage at Mary's Help

One department which works "behind the scenes" at Mary's Help Hospital has been undergoing important changes during the last year. The Laundry Department has expanded its sewing operations enormously, forced by cotton shortages which have caused manufacturers to stop making many hospital items.

"Just as an example," Sam Paris, laundry manager at Mary's Help Hospital, explained, "last fall we placed an order for various bed covers and slings. The answer we got back said that the company has stopped its manufacturing business. They sent us patterns for the materials, and wished us luck."

Fluctuating material costs have also been causing the Laundry Department concern. "Now, when we place an order, they quote us a price," said Paris, "but we have to pay whatever the cost is on delivery."

The laundry manager explained that the cotton shortages have been caused because foreign manufacturers are willing to pay $50 a bale more for cotton than U.S. manufacturers. As a consequence, the entire U.S. cotton crop for 1974 and the yet to be planted crop of 1975 are already sold. Paris noted, "With the cost so high, and supplies so scarce, and consumer demands for cotton goods rising, many manufacturers who used to make institutional linen as a 'fill-in' have simply ceased their operations."

Margaret Fitzpatrick, assistant manager, said that, "This has meant that our sewing room has had to become more and more of a manufacturing facility."

There are presently three seamstresses at work in the laundry, Eleanor Nolan, Ann Cabera, and Cecelia Kerry. In addition to their usual daily repair work which averages 800 to 1,000 pounds of linen, they now actually manufacture many of the hospital's supplies.

Special machines, an electric cutter, and a double needle sewing machine, are being installed in the facilities of the sewing room to help the seamstresses keep up with the hospital's needs.

"Right now the sewing room is actually making 80 to 90 per cent of the linen used in the operating, delivery, emergency and pediatric rooms; in addition to linen for special equipment. We make everything from baby pads to covers for orthopedic carts to the slings used in the emergency room," according to Paris.

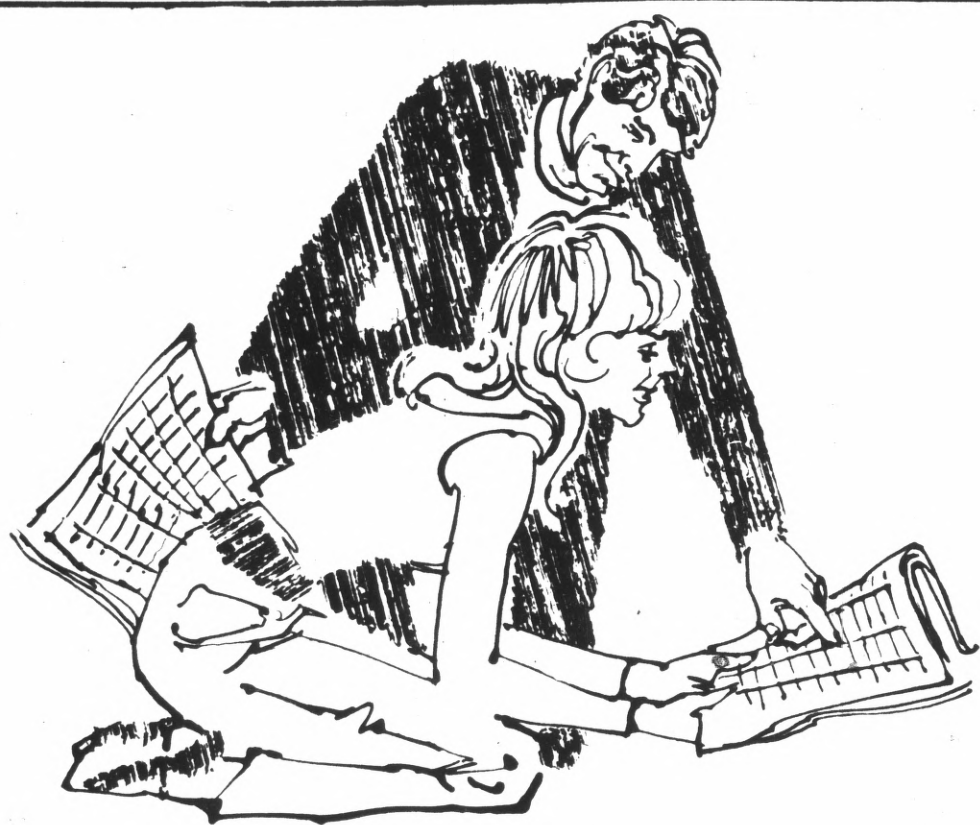

But manufacturing is not the only problem caused by the shortages. Obtaining the basic linen supplies themselves has become a problem. Where once an order would be delivered in two weeks to a month, now the hospital faces a six month wait for supplies, and even then there's no guarantee the materials will be delivered.

Like all hospitals, Mary's Help Hospital has a real problem with linen losses, and the cotton shortages have made that problem even more difficult. "We must develop tighter linen controls throughout the hospital," Ms. Fitzpatrick noted.

adding that the department is presently working on a linen control plan.

Other steps in the future call for large increases for the sewing and storage areas, and the laundry area itself is scheduled for expansion under the new building program. The sewing department, because of its increasing responsibilities, is being set up as a separate department with its own budget.

Sam Paris says that he sees no end in sight to the problem of shortages, but the laundry will continue to make every effort to provide for the hospital's growing linen demands.

Happy Holidays everyone! What better season to enjoy the sounds of music than during the holidays? The joy of music adds a special feeling to this time of year and we all pause to lend a ear to the melodies we hear.

The Young People's Choirs of Holy Angels Church in Colma will be singing Friday evening for a very special cause, according to Mrs. Terri Lagomarsino, publicity chairwoman for the Holy Angels Women's Guild.

Teen Challenge, the drug rehabilitation center, will receive the proceeds from a choral concert which the young people will give on Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Jefferson High School Little Theatre, 6096 Mission St.

Mrs. Lagomarsino explained that the Teen Challenge provides help for young men and women with drug problems. The center has live-in facilities as well as an outpatient service and is headquartered in San Francisco.

Tickets to the concert may be reserved by calling 756-8497.

TICKETS to "The Gatsby Goodtimes" party, scheduled for New Year's eve, must be paid for before Sunday evening, according to Mrs. Lynn Dougherty, publicity chairwoman for the Westlake Catholic Women.

The party, co-sponsored by the Westlake Catholic Men and the Westlake Catholic Women, will be held in the parish hall, on Elmwood Drive in the Westlake section of Daly City.

New York Steaks will be the main course at the sit down dinner to be served promptly at 9 p.m. Dancing during the party will be done to music provided by The Keynotes.

Tickets, costing $25 per couple, may be reserved now by calling Mrs. John Sullivan, 756-4071. No tickets will be sold at the door, and all tickets must be picked up by Sunday, Mrs. Dougherty emphasized.

THE PUBLIC IS INVITED to attend the reception honoring The Rev. Dr. Roe H. Johnston and his family on Sunday at noon in the Social Hall of Lakeside Presbyterian Church, Nineteenth Avenue at Eucalyptus Drive in San Francisco.

Dr. Johnston has been pastor of the Lakeside church for the past 10 years and recently has accepted a call to a church in La Grange, Illinois.

MRS. JAMES MORINO asks that you remember the Boys Scouts and the Girl Scouts when you make your New Year's resolutions next week.

Both Girl Scouting and Boy Scouting can teach adult skills to share with scouts if the volunteers are willing to give a few hours a week to working with the youth of the community. Skills can be taught, Mrs. Morino explained. What scout leaders are looking for are adults willing to share experiences and creativity with young people.

"What we are all looking for is that very special person who communicates with young people... young adult or senior citizen. We can train skills, we can't train 'love of people,'" Mrs. Morino concluded. Call the Girl Scouts, 467-3330, or the Boy Scouts, 341-5633, and tell them you want to help.

THE FRIENDS OUTSIDE Mothers Club heard Mrs. Elba Montes of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor, speak on opportunities for women to learn careers in non-traditional job areas. According to Mrs. Montes non traditional jobs are those usually done by men, driving buses, welding, other jobs which women can perform as well as men and thereby earn more money than they could in the more usual position of clerks or typist.

Information about such opportunities are available from Mrs. Montes' bureau in the Federal Office building, 450 Sutter St. in San Francisco.

Health Examinations Available to Adults

The San Mateo County Department of Public Health and Welfare is providing health examinations to adults over 55 years of age who have not had a complete physical examination in the past 18 months.

There is no charge for the screening clinic.

The purpose of getting periodic health assessments is based on discovery and treatment of conditions at the earliest possible time, with an emphasis on prevention of illness and maintenance of health.

The health examination includes a health history completed by the patient, physical examination by a physician, and the performance of various tests such as urine for sugar and protein, blood hematocrit for anemia, pap smear, glaucoma and vision.

A Public Health Nurse will provide health counseling and education. If a condition requiring further evaluation and/or care is identified, the nurse will refer the patient to an appropriate resource and do follow-up. A copy of the health screening examination will be sent to the person's regular medical source.

Public Health Nurses will also work with various senior organizations and clubs to plan for periodic educational programs regarding health concerns and community resources.

Adult Health Clinics are held every second and fourth Monday at the North County Public Health Nursing District Office in South San Francisco.

Appointments are required.

For details and appointments, contact the North County District Office, Public Health Nursing, 1024 Mission Road in South San Francisco or call 873-1800, Ext. 236.

I'm Thrilled We Are Able to Help Sister Duane: Santa's Helper at Work

For Sister Duane, community worker at Mary's Help Hospital, the Christmas season begins early.

By mid-November, when most people are feverishly preparing for Thanksgiving, Sister Duane is already hard at work collecting food, clothing and Christmas gifts for needy families in San Mateo County.

Sister Duane calls this project "Christmas Sharing." For over two dozen families it is the only Christmas they will have.

Throughout the year, Sister Duane keeps a watchful eye for families she might be able to help at Christmastime.

"Frequently, teachers will let me know if a child has cardboard in his shoes where the soles have worn through," she said. "Firemen and policemen also alert me to people who may be in need."

After deciding which families are most in need,

Sister Duane tirelessly begins collecting food, clothing and other gifts from Mary's Help Hospital employees and others in the community. Each hospital department or group of departments "adopt" a family of their own.

Shortly before Christmas, Sister Duane wraps all the gifts and packs them into heavy-duty bags, to deliver them personally to needy families.

However, the work doesn't stop there. Sister Duane often goes grocery shopping with parents to help them with their selections. Or she might spend a weekend taking children to be fitted for new shoes.

"I visited one family that was living in an old garage," she recalled. "There were five children sleeping on one double bed. I got them a small refrigerator and as many beds as I could find."

Last Christmas, Sister Duane helped 131 people. But she does not limit her community services to the Christmas season. She also doubles as the hospital's bus driver, operating a shuttle for clinic outpatients who have transportation problems. Sister Duane and her bus are frequently on emergency call, ready to transport patients whenever they may need it.

She has some ingenious ideas for helping families help themselves. For example, she is often at Mary's Help collecting old newspapers for one needy family so that they can roll and resell them.

"We try to make sure that the people we help are the ones who need it the most," said Sister Duane. "Since their founding, the Daughters of Charity have concerned themselves with the needs of the sick and the poor."

SANTA'S SLEIGH

An unusual "Santa" and her sleigh — Sister Duane from Mary's Help Hospital.

She added, I'm thrilled some of the people who at Christmastime, but that we are able to help can use a hand. Not just always."

Former Pastor Wants to Ease the Pain of Divorce

By JOHN HORGAN The Rev. Donald Fado believes that something ought to be done by organized religion to ease the pain of divorce.

The former pastor of the Burlingame United Methodist Church, the Rev. Fado says that, "The church has a ministry to people at almost every other time in a person's life, so why not when divorce occurs?"

Twice during his tenure in Burlingame, he created a simple ceremony for divorced couples to ease the burden of guilt and sorrow.

By giving tacit sanction to a release from the marriage vow, the Rev. Fado, now a minister at the United Church Center in Fresno, says a sense of reality can be afforded divorce.

"My experience has been that most couples can't forgive themselves until some time after the divorce is final," he says. "There is just too much hostility before then."

Says the minister, "There needs to be some kind of therapeutic understanding of their new relationship. It's more a counseling situation than a religious ceremony."

The Rev. Fado is concerned that too many churches tend to treat divorce as if it didn't exist. "Divorce is considered to be a personal failure," he continues. "Society treats the person brutally during this time. The church ought to provide a divorced person a realistic chance for a fresh start."

To that end, he encourages divorced couples to send out announcements of their new situation and to urge their friends to keep in touch without taking sides in the marital trouble.

"Just a simple note, either handwritten or printed, would do a lot to avoid many of the awkward situations which follow a divorce," he adds.

He is convinced that the business of divorce has to be gotten out "from under the carpet." As he puts it, "Why hide it?"

In all, the Rev. Fado says he has broadened the notion of a divorce ceremony to perhaps 30 couples. None wanted to participate at the time of the divorce.

"Feelings ran too high," he says.

Generally, he says the response to his idea has been positive. He believes that, since the concept of forgiveness is inherent in Christianity, it ought to be extended to divorce too.

"We all have a mandate to avoid hating," he notes. "There are times when we all fail. This is one of them."

He says his idea can be valuable in the effort to make the transition from the married state to single status.

Christmas Calls Will Break Local Record

Christmas calling will break all records in the North County and California this year, predicts Pacific Telephone manager Nick Roden.

Though he couldn't estimate local calling totals, he said PT&T expects more than two million statewide calls will be dialed directly by residents to points within and outside of California on Christmas Day.

California operators are expected to handle about eight per cent more long distance calls within and outside the state than the 2.3 million handled last Christmas.

Nationwide, the prediction is that callers will make about one million more interstate calls than last year, for a record holiday total of 13.5 million.

Overseas calls also are expected to set records, Roden said, with an estimated 400,000 predicted to foreign countries — double the number for an average business day.

Christmas is traditionally the busiest day of the year for Pacific Telephone and other Bell System companies because of a major shift in calling habits.

"The telephone network is geared to normal business day calling, which is heavily between metropolitan areas," he said. "But on holidays, most people call from their homes in the suburbs or rural areas, increasing traffic on low-volume routes."

Christmas calls also last about twice as long as an average business call, he said.

To meet calling demand, PT&T and the Bell System have added about 3,000 circuits to the domestic and international phone network.

At network centers in North America, the flow of worldwide phone traffic will be constantly watched so calls can be completed on alternate routes when necessary. A new computer system will transmit changing traffic information to these centers in seconds so the networks can be reconfigured to all available circuits.

"And, unlike most Americans, thousands of Bell System employees will work on Christmas to complete as many calls as possible," he said. The entire force of 3,000 overseas operators, for example, will work at seven overseas operating centers in the nation.

The calling rush usually starts on Christmas Eve and ends late Christmas night.

AT OUR OAKLAND DUBLIN VALLEJO CASTRO VALLEY SANTA ROSA SAN FRANCISCO & SAN MATEO STORES!

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks. Though Christmas is here, we still have another week of festivities and I'd like to share a recipe for a punch that's certainly easy to make and quite delicious. This drink is made in your automatic coffee urn and stays hot and ready to serve at your convenience.

BETTY'S HOLIDAY PUNCH

- 2 quarts cranberry juice cocktail
- 2 quarts unsweetened pineapple juice
- 1 quart water
- Two-thirds cup brown sugar
- 1 Tablespoon whole cloves
- 1 Tablespoon whole allspice
- 4 sticks cinnamon
- 2 lemons, cut in quarters

Pour the two quarts each cranberry juice cocktail and unsweetened pineapple juice and one quart water into large coffee urn. In the basket of the urn put the one tablespoon each whole cloves and allspice, two-thirds cup brown sugar four sticks cinnamon and two quartered lemons. Put on top of urn and allow coffee maker to go through its regular cycle. This amount of ingredients makes about 39 four-ounce servings.

Let's look ahead a bit and think about what we will make with some of the delicious turkey that's left after the Christmas feast. This turkey pie is certainly as easy to make as possible, hence the name.

1-2-3 TURKEY PIE

- 1 cup diced cooked turkey
- 1 cup cubed, cooked potatoes
- 4 cup cooked carrots, peas or cut green beans
- 1 can condensed cream of chicken soup
- 2 cups milk
- 1 Tablespoon minced onion
- 4 Teaspoon poultry seasoning, or as desired
- 1 cup packaged biscuit mix
- One-third cup milk

Combine the one cup cooked turkey, one cup cooked diced potatoes and one-half cup vegetables in a quart and half casserole. Blend the one can cream of chicken soup with the fourth cup milk, one tablespoon minced onion and fourth teaspoon poultry seasoning; pour over turkey and vegetables. Bake in pre-heated hot (450-degree) oven for 10 minutes.

Meanwhile combine the one cup biscuit mix with the third cup milk; roll one-half inch thick and cut into six biscuits. Remove casserole from oven; place biscuits on top. Return to oven and continue baking about 15 minutes or until biscuits are browned.

This makes three servings. Obviously it's easy to double this recipe. I guess, in that case we could rename it the 2-4-6 Turkey Pie. Happy Holidays.

Benefit Choral Concert Slated

The Young People's Choir of Holy Angels Church in Colma will present a choral concert for the benefit of Teen Challenge (Drug Rehabilitation Center) Friday evening in the Jefferson High School little theatre, 6996 Mission St., Daly City, at 7:30 p.m.

Teen Challenge provides help for both young men and women who are unfortunate victims of drug traffic by offering live-in facilities, as well as out-patient services.

Teen Challenge, Inc. central office is located in San Francisco. For tickets and information, call P. Campbell at 756-8497.

Kiwanis Club

Senior citizens in Pacifica have the opportunity to get their hair cut each Wednesday at Skyline College in San Bruno.

Classes Set

A Winter Symphonic Band will be sponsored by the South San Francisco Recreation Department, with the class beginning Jan. 16 and running for ten weeks.

Band rehearsals will be held weekly from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursdays.

Participants must have two years minimum experience on instruments and furnish them. They must be 18 or older.

TOAST

Mrs. Richard Galliani, Charles Boerio, and Mrs. John Sullivan are toasting in the new year. The Westlake Catholic Men and Women's club, of Our Lady of Mercy parish, invite the public to attend the annual New Year's eve party "The Gatsby Goodtimes" held in the church hall Dec. 31 at 7 p.m. A New York steak dinner, Caesar salad, restuffed potato, vegetable, French bread, and relish tray will be served promptly at 9 p.m., followed by dancing to the Keynotes. Reservations must be paid for and picked up by Dec. 29th. Call 756-4071.

Hairstyling for Senior Citizens

Every Wednesday morning the Pacifica Kiwanis Club's Kijuna Taxi shuttles a dozen senior citizens from the Glen Haven Club to Skyline College where they receive free haircuts, settings, and styling services between 9 and 11 a.m.

"This program is good for both the school's Cosmetology Department and the senior citizens," Skyline Cosmetology Instructor Joann Sterling explained.

"It provides a needed service for the senior citizens who would not normally be able to afford such a luxury on fixed incomes, and it enables the students here to gain the experience they will need by practicing on a human head," Sterling added.

This service is made possible by Pacifica residents who are members of the Kiwanis Club. They include George Hinkle, vice principal of Terra Nova High School; Robert Bingham, Pacifica's deputy fire chief; and Floyd Elkins, Skyline College Assistant Dean of Instruction-Careers. These club members, plus other members, divide the responsibility of driving the Kijuna Taxi each week.

Senior patron Betty White stated, "I think it is wonderful, and it is just as good as any beauty parlor."

Another Glen Haven resident Marie Vinje declared, "It's such a big thing for us."

Service Is The Word

Service is a word for Christmas.

From an old slab in the Cathedral of Lubeck, Germany comes a poem entitled "Thus Speaketh the Christ, Our Lord." We wonder if he speaks such words to Americans at Christmas. We hope not.

Ye call Me Master and obey Me not,
Ye call Me Light and see Me not,
Ye call Me Way and walk Ye not,
Ye call Me Life and desire Me not,
Ye call Me wise and follow Me not,
Ye call Me fair and love Me not,
Ye call Me rich and ask Me not,
Ye call Me eternal and seek Me not,
Ye call Me gracious and trust Me not,
Ye call Me noble and serve Me not,
Ye call Me mighty and honor Me not,
Ye call Me just and fear Me not,
If I condemn you, blame Me not.

Service is the quality that gladdens the heart of the teacher, who was born on Christmas Day. "Bear ye one another's burden, and so fulfil the law of Christ." — Galatians 6:2

Service — people helping people: Operation Santa Claus, charity, youth clubs, outreach, eye foundations, health clinics, job lines. As Saint Paul wrote "... Ye have been called into liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another."

Who are a few of our less fortunate friends? mused Frances Parkinson Keyes and in answering her own question wrote "... a lonely schoolteacher, a new minister who is only half acquainted with his flock, a young couple who are still not settled in their modest home, an elderly relative, one who is so vaguely a cousin that she is no one's real responsibility; ... people we have known in some other city; the country girl who has come to study music at the Conservatory; the country boy who is working his way through school, the Westerner who has decided the area is inhospitable, the Southerner who hates chill winds and longs for camellias blooming in his distant garden."

Helping such people "gives pleasure as well as receives it. It adds to the variety of our conversation, broadens our outlook and deepens our consciousness that Christmas is a season of goodwill."

John Winthrop's words for a free people are use "liberty to do that which is good, just and honest."

"Serve," said Emerson, "and thou shalt be served. If you love and serve men, you cannot, by any hiding or stratagem, escape the remuneration."

The Brownie "Bee" program will be tied into the standard Brownie handbook and "more-about's" and will provide tangible rewards for the younger Scouts. The next planning meeting which will also be a Brownie leaders conference, will be held on Jan. 22, at 7:30 p.m. at Mrs. Morino's home, 91 Lausanne St., Daly City. All area Brownie leaders and assistants are welcome to attend.

Keiko Akashi, Shelley Benning, Genevieve Chollet, Darla Dunn, Heather Fern, Laura Fisher, Cheryl Furst, Michelle and Susan Galli, Evan Gwalnick, Minako Ishihara, Laurie Luster, Sandy Vislup, Yvette O'Connor, Dawn Rutherford, Debra Saxsenmeier and Debbie

Smith will also sing for the convalescents. Daly City Girl Scout leaders and cookie sale chairwomen who wish to reserve cookie selling space in local markets, banks and shopping centers are asked to contact Mrs. Kathy Skirra 756-2560 immediately. No troop will be permitted to offer cookies for sale at any business location without checking with Mrs. Skirra.

Junior Girl Scout troop 476 held its most recent Court of Awards at Camp Ida Smith according to troop publicity chairwoman Mrs. Becky Burke. Proficiency badges earned during summer months were awarded by troop leader Mrs. Joan Stewart.

Participating were Tami Stoeppelwerth, Roxanne Whelan, Michele Hyland, Christine Russo, Natsuko Akashi, Jennifer Sturdevant, Lynn Burden, Jonine Fern, Patty Revello, Marcia Thorne and Mrs. Janice Bradford.

READY FOR THE MAILS

Dick South of the County Elections Division checks out nearly 100,000 notification cards. The cards are being sent out to help restore registration for voters who did not show up for the Nov. 5 election.

Voter Registration Cards in the Mail

Nearly 100,000 San Mateo County residents who lost their voter registration by failing to vote in the Nov. 5 general election soon will have the opportunity to restore their registration.

The County Elections Division is placing in the mail this week cards giving non-voters the option of restoring their registration by simply returning one-half of the card they will receive.

Dick South, chief deputy in the Elections Division, said the return portion of the card carries prepaid postage and all that the recipient has to do is check it he or she wants registration restored, sign the card, list the address and drop the card in the mail.

Registration is immediately restored upon receipt of the card by the Elections Division, South said. Cards must be returned by Feb. 18, he added.

South noted that the restoration procedure applies only to persons who have not moved since last registering to vote. Persons who have changed their address must re-register with the Elections Division, 40 Tower Road, San Mateo, or at Room B, County Clerk's Office, Hall of Justice, Redwood City.

Insurance Rules Toughened

A new law passed in the closing days of the last legislature, and called the most significant automobile insurance law enacted in years, becomes effective January 1, 1975.

The bill provides that every Californian will be required to purchase automobile liability insurance.

The bill states that "every driver of, and owner of, a motor vehicle must, at all times maintain in force . . . financial responsibility." To meet the requirements of the new law, individuals are given alternative avenues to choose under what kind of financial responsibility they will operate their vehicle.

Persons not holding a liability insurance policy or $35,000 in cash or bonds will be punished by a fine of $100 after the first of January.

No attempt will be made to enforce the law until an accident occurs. If a motorist has an accident, regardless of fault, and he can not show he has insurance or a bond, he will be subject to a $100 fine plus suspension of his driver license.

Officials of the California State Automobile Association say that this bill is not mandatory insurance, but did agree that the obvious choice for nearly all motorists is to purchase insurance.

Under the present law a driver without the required insurance can have his license suspended. This has not been effective in getting uninsured cars off the highway. Sponsor of the bill Sen. Clark Bradley (R-San Jose) said he felt that the new law would have more effect with the mandatory $100 fine involved, plus the loss of drivers license.

A spokesman for the California Highway Patrol said that Patrol would not attempt to enforce the law until an accident occurs. The new law requires that any accident involving more than $250 damage will have to be reported within 15 days after the accident.

This new law, according to a Capitol spokesman, now partly answers the long standing question: "I have to buy insurance, how come the other guy doesn't have any?" The new law, although it does leave a loophole in the form of bond, or $35,000 in cash in savings, is for all practical purposes a mandatory insurance law. Now, when accident occurs and when the fault is established and a judgement is subsequently filed with the Department of Motor Vehicles against an uninsured driver or owner, he will have to clear that suspension of his driver's license and the registration of all his owned vehicles.

Council Rejects SSF Arbor Bid

What started as a simple arbor to shade senior citizens using South San Francisco City Hall park benches has grown into a $19,500 plaza.

Wednesday night, the project received one more escalation. South San Francisco contractor Joe Eberle's $28,300 bid was the only one received and the City Council voted, 4-1, to reject the bid. The city intends to rebid the project, now called the "Public Rest Area at the Civic Center." Councilman Leo Padreddi, opposes the plans, voted "no," on grounds that even $19,500 was too much.

"I did not realize that things were going so well for contractors," commented Councilman Dick Battaglia. City Manager Ed Alario, who recommended rejection of the bid, said more contractors would be made aware of the project.

St. Catherine's Nuns Leave

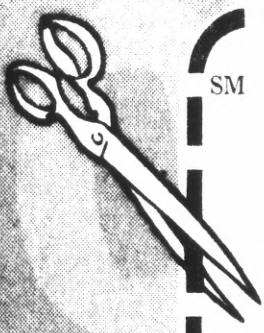

Teaching nuns at St. Catherine's Catholic School in Burlingame will be transferred to other assignments by their order, the Sisters of Mercy, by the fall of 1975.

Presently, there are three nuns teaching classes at the elementary school. The rest are lay teachers. A spokesman for the school said officials are trying to secure replacements for the nuns from another order.

The principal, Sister Rosanne, will remain next year, he said. There is no danger of the school closing. Enrollments have held up at St. Catherine's in recent years.

Westmoor High's Maurice Pittman (23) and unidentified teammate seem to be ready to form a circle with Capuchino's Ralph Costanzo (30) around a loose ball in Wednesday night's El Camino Invitational tournament action.

The Irish scored the first 12 points of the third quarter stretching their scoring advantage over Mills to 24-2 in a five-minute span over the second and third quarters to blow the game wide open.

FIFTH PLACE

Jefferson's offense finally broke loose in the last period as the Indians won the consolation championship, 70-52, over host El Camino. Will Rhodes' shooting had kept the Colts in the game for three quarters but jumping junior Randy Singleton's ballhawking and rebounding sparked Jeff to a 12-unanswered points streak Warrior the win. Selvitella stole the ball from Cap, went on a driving lay-in for the basket, hit the lay-in and was intentionally fouled in the process for another two free throw points.

Le Pacini Piling Up The Honors

LOCAL NOTES:

San Francisco State's record-breaking pass receiver Dan Ferrigno continues to pile up honors. His latest is being named to the United Press International's Little All Coast squad.

Former outstanding Terra Nova High lineman Steve Lacy, this year a freshman at Menlo College, recently received the Greenwall Award for football leadership at Menlo.

And John Moreno, another Terra Nova graduate continued piling up honors as a long distance runner when he was recently named Skyline College's Most Valuable Distance man. Skyline, under the direction of former Jefferson High track coach Bob Luahati, finished third this year in the Northern California cross country finals.

FOOTBALL NOTES:

If nothing else can be said of the 1974 49ers, they had probably the best defense among the NFL's losing teams. We don't mean to be facetious. Considering the injuries they sustained, that's good marks.

Norm Snead, for all his inactivity and age and bad knees, still managed, statistically, at least, to finish as the eighth most effective passer in the NFC.

Most Don Meredith fans now think of him only as a witty sports commentator and a surprisingly good actor for a former athlete, but many forget that he was one of the finest NFL quarterbacks of his time. At least that's always been our opinion of him. He was sometimes erratic and always controversial, and always threatening to retire early, but he put in nine productive years with the Dallas Cowboys and had much to do with establishing them as a perennial power. Actually, he quit at probably his peak, had one of his best years in his last year in 1968, and quite possible would have gotten better as he moved into his early 30's (He was 30 during his last season.)

Even with his premature retirement, Meredith was in three Pro Bowls and even now is ranked by the NFL as the 25th most effective passer in pro football history.

That doesn't sound too impressive until it's pointed out that the 24 passers ranked above Meredith all put in more seasons than he, most of them at least three or four more seasons, and that he's ranked ahead of such as Sid Luckman, Otto Graham, Eddie LeBaron, Bob Waterfield and Paul Christman.

Actually, Meredith is doing sort of a Joe Garagiola take-off. Garagiola finds it funny to put himself down as an inept .250 hitter, but he was actually a fine defensive catcher, had a lifetime batting average of .257 (which is quite adequate for a good defensive backstop), was a World Series hero at age 20, and hit .280 during his last season. He, too, quit after nine years in the big leagues, at only 28, probably at his peak. But he, too, like Meredith, had the show biz bug.

Luckman, incidentally, still has the highest percentage ever of touchdown passes thrown per pass attempts. Sid threw TD's on eight per cent of all passes he threw. He also ranks second behind Otto Graham on average yards gained per pass attempt — 8.42 as against Graham's 8.63.

Roman Gabriel still has the lowest percentage of interceptions. Only 3.3 per cent of his attempts have ever been intercepted.

Roger Staubach, who is only in his sixth year of NFL competition, ranks surprisingly high in such esoteric passing categories. Among QB's who have played regularly a minimum of three seasons, he has the highest completion percentage, 59.0 (going into this past season.). Only three passers (Lennie Dawson, Frank Ryan and Luckman) rank above him in TD percentage (he has 6.3), and only seven (Fran Tarkenton, Sonny Jurgensen, Gabriel, Bart Starr, Bill Munson, Gary Cuozzo, Archie Manning) rate better than him on interception percentage (His is 4.8). Only Luckman and Graham have been better than Staubach on average yards gained per pass attempt. His is 8.31.

EVERY YEAR football's color men come up with a new catch phrase. This year's champ seems to be "active," as in, "He's a very active linebacker."

Question of the day is, if so-and-so is "active," as so declared by the color man, then does it logically follow that all those not declared "active" are inactive? And if that is true, if there are in truth all those "inactive" players, then why is there so much moving around and hitting on the field? How can one be inactive and play football? And if that is impossible, then why should being "active" be worthy of special recognition? All very confusing.

Possibly ranking second to "active" is the phrase, "young rookie," as in "So-and-so, the young rookie, looks great." With rare exceptions, all rookies are young. Perhaps, though, that is more a redundancy than a catch phrase.

Ah, for those times when the world was simple, and Bob Fouts was in love with "red-dogging" and "rooster blocks."

BASKETBALL NOTES:

Some interesting Warrior individual statistics (Using the Pacini method of averages based on each 48 minutes of play, rather than on a straight "per game" basis):

LEADING Warrior rebounder is George Johnson, with 21.5 per 48 minutes. He's followed by Clifford Ray (16.5), Derrek Dickey (14.6), Keith Wilkes (12.5), Rick Barry (7.4) and, surprise, Charley Johnson (6.8).

Both Warrior centers have enviable individual stats, and seem to complement each other nicely. Johnson beats Ray in rebounding (as noted), scoring (16.0 to 13.9), blocks (4.3-2.9), field goal percentage (54.0-49.3) and free throw percentage (66.7-59.3), while Ray, who puts in more playing time and is considered an inspirational leader, tops Johnson in assists (4.7-2.1) and steals (2.4-1.0).

Also interesting. During his limited playing time, most of which has been spent getting back in shape after an exhibition season broken hand, Jeff Mullins is averaging 25.6 points every 48 minutes.

And Rick Barry won't break any officially recognized records this year, but if there were one which somehow combined scoring, steals, rebounds and assists (such as football does, for example with combined yardage gained by runs from scrimmage, kickoff returns, and pass receptions), he would come up with an interesting total ... PERHAPS THE BEST EVER.

MISCELLANY:

Joe Falls, a Detroit sports columnist, recently did a column for the Sporting News in which he said, in effect, that sports writers should be too critical of sports broadcasters, because they have such a tough job, and Falls doubted whether any sports writer could do what broadcasters do.

We could use the old reversal argument, i.e., could they do what sports writers do? Very possibly many of them could, as a matter of fact. But that isn't the point, that being that broadcasters are professionals, like any other media men, get paid several times more than most sports writers, and should damned well be extremely competent, with no excuses about how hard their job is. So as Joe suggested, no, we will not forgive the mistakes of broadcasters. They get paid a lot of money not to make any.

At the recent induction ceremonies for the Black Hall of Fame, somebody remarked that the two most influential black athletes have been Jackie Robinson, for breaking the barriers, and Muhammad Ali, for the pride he brought to black athletes. We think that Joe Louis should be included in that small company of greats. He was the first black athlete who ever had more than one or two whites rooting for him.

John Caselli, who used to play with a disarming, reflexive smile on his face most of the time, was a deadly serious athlete Saturday night.

Not until after the championship game of the El Camino Tournament, standing virtually alone in a vacant gymnasium, did JayCee crack the familiar grin.

He had a right to smile by then. The Serra Padres had rebounded from a triple-overtime loss to Westmoor the week before in the finals of their own tournament to take a 64-54 victory over the Rams to win the 10th Annual Classic title.

And, even though the tournament names no Most Valuable Player as such, there is no question who that person should have been. Caselli had done everything both against Mills in the second round and against suddenly-mistake-prone Westmoor in the championship game.

"We knew that the stall we used against Westmoor the first time was not exactly effective," Caselli smiled, remembering the way the Pads frittered away a nine-point lead the first time the two strong teams met. "So we worked on that aspect during practice a lot this week and it paid off."

Serra controlled the game most of the way. The driving tactics of the Rams were foiled this time as time after time sparkplug guard Rob Baptista was called for offensive fouls trying to take the game to the Padres. And when Baptista fouled out in the third quarter the Ram fast break ended.

This time the Pads were able to hold onto that final period lead with smart ball-handling. With Baptista out on fouls, guard Ted Scott having a miserable shooting night and the Ram front line, except for center Maurice Pittman, not dominating the boards, Serra patiently nurtured a five-point quarter advantage to as much as 12 in the closing moments. Westmoor shot just 33 per cent (22x66) from the floor. The Padre execution in the last quarter was perfection personified. Serra hit nine of 10 free throws (12 for 14 in the second half after getting none in the first half) and chipped in another four lay-ins and two offensive tips for the 21 final quarter points.

But it was Caselli that got the Pads off and running early. He had personally decimated Mills the night before and Saturday night hit eight points in the first quarter to boost Serra to a 20-8 lead.

In fact, were it not for the continual fine play of sophomore forward Chris Tyeskey, the Rams could easily have been blown out earlier. Tyeskey, an All-Tourney selectee, was personally responsible for keeping Westmoor within seven-to-nine the first half and his three-point play at 4:50 of the third quarter brought Westmoor as close as it was to get, 36-32.

Caselli then set up two easy buckets for Joe Ned, the Pads kept connecting at the free-throw line and Westmoor went down to its first loss in five tries.

THIRD PLACE

Sacred Heart scored 12 straight points in the closing minutes of the first half to break a 23-all tie and supply the momentum for a 67-46 win over Mills for third place.

Turnovers killed Mills once again. During one stretch in the first quarter the Vikings handed the ball over six straight times without taking a shot (three before they reached mid-court) and generally mangled their own chances with poor passing.

THE LEGISLATIVE permit allowing studded snow tires is scheduled to expire May 1, 1975. So, unless further legislative action is taken by that date, the studded tire will become illegal.

The tip here is not to go ahead and buy studded tires unless you are prepared to scrap them after only one year's service in the Sierra.

The studded tire controversy has raged for the past several years, with neither side claiming a clearcut victory. On the safety side, studded tires enable both decreased stopping distance and better steering control on icy surfaces. Which could end up saving someone's life.

Conversely, the tires play havoc on road surfaces, as witnessed by trying to drive the Trans-Canada highway during the summer months. In addition to causing increased highway wear, the studded tires also make wheel path ruts, slide on wet pavement (which could end up taking someone's life) and increase traffic noise.

The Federal Highway Administration reported that the standard steel chains are still more effective on ice than are the studded tires.

Either way, most skiers will admit that the studs are thought of more for a matter of convenience than safety.

Auto Show at Fairgrounds

For the twenty-first year in a row the San Mateo County Fairgrounds will host the San Mateo Auto Show, for three days, January 3-4-5, 1975.

Show chairman Andy Brizio stated that he expects 150 different custom vehicles to be on display, including hot rods, custom cars, race cars, motorcycles and custom boats.

One of the feature cars already signed for the San Mateo show is the "Coke Machine," owned and built by Steve Tansy, of Tipton, Indiana.

Skyline Awaits Invite Opener

Whenever Skyline College's basketball team played, something seemed to be missing.

It was confidence. But as the Trojans prepare for Friday's opening round of their own Skyline Invitational, Coach Lyle Newcomer doesn't have to worry about the players underestimating themselves.

Skyline shot 56 per cent from the floor and showed surprising board strength Saturday night as they dropped San Jose City College 90-61 in San Bruno and earned their sixth win in 11 games.

"We haven't been shooting too well, and we usually don't rebound well, either," commented Newcomer, whose Trojans out-boarded SJCC 37-24. "But they've got confidence now."

Nick Pappageorge with 20 points and Wyatt Sweeney with 18 led the Trojans eased to a 23-point lead at halftime and continued to dominate in the final 20 minutes.

Crestmoor High's wrestling team kept its unbeaten streak going Thursday afternoon with an easy 54-15 win over Westmoor.

The Falcons got seven pins and a forfeit to account for 48 of their 54 points. The quickest pin was registered by Ron Badal in 154's, just 1:04.

handing out candy to the children on the slopes of Kirkwood every day between now and Christmas.

Special events on Christmas Eve include a torchlight parade followed by Christmas carols in the Mountain Lodge.

Kirkwood will also host NASTAR Races every Monday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, starting at 1 p.m. The lifts will be cranked up at 8:30 a.m. each day.

CAL GUNN, the astute mentor of Slide Mountain, has come up with a very magnanimous gesture for 'beating inflation.'

The Palo Alto barrister has announced that children under 12 years of age may ski for free this season when accompanied by a skiing adult.

"We believe skiing is a family activity and by offering free skiing to children, we'll encourage more families to ski," Gunn stated.

SNOW CONDITIONS are marginal because of a lack of snowfall, and this is where the artistic mountain managers come in handy. The resorts with good mountain managers to oversee the grooming will be the ones with the best hills during Christmas.

LIFT LINES . . . Bear Valley's Ni Orsi and 19-year-old Randy Cook of Squaw Valley shared to honors in last weekend's Far West Pros NASTAR Race at Alpine Meadows . . . Also winning age-group awards were Alpine's Werner Schuster (40-49) and Badger Pass' Nici Flore (over 50).

The annual Hang Ten Cup Pro Ski Races will be held January 2-5 at Heavenly Valley . . . The race is expected to lure such ski luminaries as Jean-Claude Killy, Hugo Nindl and Spider Sabich.

The Sugar Bowl will again limit daily lift ticket sales on weekends and holidays to the first 2,500 skiers . . . "This means that we will be selling two lift tickets for each seat available on our chairlifts and gondola lifts," said Don Schwartz, vice-president and general manager. "We initiated the program last season to provide the shortest lift lines in the Sierra," he added.

Jackson Hole reports it opened a new bowl this season. The Casper Bowl features ten new runs and trails, and miles of new intermediate and low intermediate terrain.

GUIDE TO CHRISTMAS DINING

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Enjoy Christmas and New Year's-Dine Out

'Tis the season to be jolly,' go the lyrics to one of our popular Christmas carols, and Bright Lights considers this to be sound advice this holiday season.

Although we Americans certainly have our share of problems, we're still living at a higher standard than any other nation on earth. So let's take the opportunity this Christmas and New Year's to truly enjoy and appreciate the prosperity and abundance by which we are still surrounded in these United States. Make this Holiday season even more meaningful by doing a worthwhile deed for your fellowman.

The many restaurants, hotels, and clubs in the Bay Area are making every effort to add to your Yuletide spirit by featuring special menus and entertainment. And listed on these Bright Lights pages are many of the outstanding.

Enjoy the Holidays, even though it seems necessary for a belt-tightening, and hope for a prosperous 1975. MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL!

LLOYD JOHNSON

Ben. Franklin Open Christmas-New Year's

Several special menu attractions will be offered at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel on Christmas Day and New Year's Day. Turkey, ham, prime rib, steaks and Veal Cordon Bleu will be among the Holiday entrees to be served in the Willow dining room, along with salad, soup and dessert. This Holiday fare begins at $5.50; a child's plate of ham or turkey is $3.50. Other menu items will also be available. In the adjacent lounge, a Holiday martini or Manhattan is just 75 cents. . . . Adrian Stickney, his executives, and all of his employees will be spending Christmas Day with their families, as all of the various Stickney's restaurants, including Palo Alto's Shirt Tail, will be closed December 25. On New Year's Eve, the Shirt Tail will be offering the regular dinner menu and normal prices. A quiet evening of dining, with the usual festivity at midnight, is slated. . . . Tom Chigas and Ed Murphy will close their bustling Christopher's on Christmas Day and New Year's Day. The San Mateo restaurant will also close early on the evenings before each of the holidays.

Special Xmas Dinner At Omar Khayyam's

An optimistic outlook during difficult times is shared by many people, but very few are able to express this attitude more articulately than George Mardikian in his annual Christmas message 1974. Mardikian, through his faith in America and its citizens, has managed to convey this faith to thousands of fellow Americans during the course of his lifetime. His books, lectures and myriad activities have all been directed toward one goal — a deep appreciation of the values and personal achievements associated with being an American. In these troubled times, we certainly need more citizens with the remarkable spirit and optimistic attitudes of George Mardikian. Omar Khayyam's, his world-famous restaurant in San Francisco, will be open on Christmas Day to serve a special Holiday dinner, with all the trimmings.

Christmas Treat For the Children

Lehr's Greenhouse garden restaurant in San Francisco rolls out the red carpet for families with children on Christmas Day. Owner Murray Lehr posts special low prices for children under 10, and they get their choice of anything on the menu. Dinners will be served from noon 'til midnight. . . . The crew at Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant will take a brief Holiday rest. This popular "Fisherman's Wharf on the Peninsula" spot will not be open on Christmas Day. However, a festive feast that should go down in your memory as "wonderful" is to be enjoyed any other day of the week. As an extra treat, order Long Island Oysters on the Half Shell. Forget that old wives' tale that oysters are in season only in months with R. Here's a gift suggestion for Christmas or any occasion: Give a Gift Certificate Set (note the form on the inside of the Table Tent on each table at Vince's).

Scotty Campbell's Open Christmas Day

Scotty Campbell's will be among the prominent Peninsula restaurants serving dinner on Christmas Day. This Redwood City restaurant is a favorite dining spot for countless numbers, which means early reservations are suggested. The regular menu will be featured from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. . . . Enrico Romano, host-owner of Romano's Italian restaurant which is located in a colorful setting in Pacifica's Rockaway Beach, has done more for the pizza than the anchovy. His pizza specialties, which come small, medium, extra large, are many. And if you like paste prepared with Italian know-how, you'll find that flavor and variety go hand-in-hand at Romano's. Soups, salads, sandwiches, and dinner entrees are also available. Choice table wines to complement each meal are served at room temperature. . . . The New Year's Eve dinner party at the Mabuhay Gardens in San Francisco will be a formal affair. A nine-course Filipino dinner or steak dinner, both with champagne, will be the fare. Eddie Mesa, Norma Balagtas and Danny Wilbert will be entertaining. $50 per couple is the price for the complete evening of fun.

GIFTED PERFORMER

Beautiful Florence Henderson and the Smothers Brothers headline the special Holiday entertainment program in the South Shore Room at Harrah's Tahoe. Two performances are scheduled nightly, with the exception of one show only on New Year's Eve (1:30 a.m.).

Illuminated Dining

Nick Gust Restaurants

Illuminated oceanside dining is a crowd attraction at all three of Nick Gust's restaurants — The Moonraker, Nick's and Captain Charles, which are located on the shores of Pacifica in Rockaway Beach. Each restaurant has a ringside view of some of the world's most spectacular marine beauty, and this is the festive time of the year to enjoy all the dining excitement. The Christmas Day hours at Nick's restaurant will be 10 a.m. to 2 a.m., which means you can begin the Holiday with a leisurely breakfast. Also open on New Year's Day featuring brunch and dinner. . . . The Moonraker, where the theme is nautical and the cuisine continental in style, will be serving on Christmas Day, too. . . . Captain Charles, specializing in gourmet seafood, will not be open on Christmas Day but extends seasons greetings. . . . Dinners as usual on New Year's Eve at Martinelli's Steak Pit in Millbrae. Two bars will be open. Steaks will be the main bill of fare. . . . Planning a trip to Nevada for the Holidays? Let Nevada Tours arrange a Drive-Up Package for you. Basketball Stars Visit Lehr's Steakery Warriors basketball stars Rick Barry and Jeff Mullins and their wives had heads swiveling in the elegant Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's during a pre-theater dinner party.

The Ballroom of the Airport Marina Hotel in Burlingame will be the scene of festive celebrating on New Year's Eve. $47.50 per couple includes a superlative dinner buffet (from 8 p.m.), six cocktails, dancing to the Big Band sound, party favors for the midnight hour, and all taxes and gratuities. And that's not all, after all that celebrating you get to stay over night at the hotel with a late check out. The Coffee Shop will be open 24 hours as an extra convenience.

The smooth sounds of vocalist-guitarist Tony Soraci are brightening up the Mark Twain Casino Lounge at Ormsby House Hotel and Casino in Carson City, now through New Year's Eve. Tony came to this country from his native Italy only five years ago.

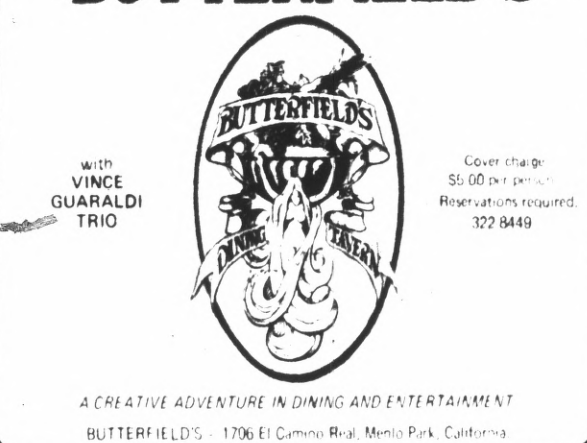

Bob Williamson, general manager of the Burlingame Hyatt House, is offering a splendid menu for diners on New Year's Eve. The evening also includes midnight champagne, compliments of the house, party favors and dancing to the Bob Lucas Band.

Skinny Gourmet New Restaurant

If you're weight conscious (and who isn't these days), diet dining is very much in evidence at 1622 Palm Avenue in San Mateo, the location of the new Skinny Gourmet, a restaurant which caters to those who conscientiously follow the low calorie charts. But don't let that fool you — the food is not bland or uninteresting. Co-owners John Totoro, the host; Larry Grenier, the preparation expert who weighs every ingredient for the proper amount of calories in each portion; and Sam Shaboon, head chef who prepares these measured ingredients for each order, have a delightful menu of carefully seasoned luncheon and dinner items to entice the palate. This new restaurant, with its scientific approach to losing weight with culinary finesse, has the congratulations of the "Weight Watchers Club." Desserts, also low calorie count, are also served, as well as food to go. The motto here is, "Your loss is our gain." Open 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week.

Congressman Ryan Schedules Southeast Asia Study Trip

"The next couple of years will see the proposed expenditures of hundreds of millions of dollars in foreign aid funds in Southeast Asia," said Congressman Leo J. Ryan (D-San Mateo County).

"In anticipation of the battle in Congress over those funds," said Ryan, "I am visiting both Saigon and Seoul."

There has been no on-the-spot House Foreign Affairs Committee study of Southeast Asia in recent years.

"I intend to visit these Asian capitals to examine in some depth where U.S. dollars are currently going and how future monies should be authorized by the House Foreign Affairs Committee," Ryan explained.

The congressman will leave the district, on the Asian study mission, after the session adjourns for the Philippines and then on to Saigon for meetings with Vietnamese leaders.

The mission will involve meetings with government officials as did the Warsaw Pact study trip earlier this year. In addition, the Congressman will be meeting with representatives of those opposed to the Park government in South Korea and the Thieu government in South Vietnam.

"Meetings with both government officials and opposition leaders will provide the best possible view of where our foreign aid dollars have been spent," said Ryan.

"The matter of where and how the billions of our tax dollars are spent in foreign countries is an extremely vital matter which as a member of the Subcommittee on Foreign Economic Policy I must carefully examine," Ryan said. "This first hand investigation will give me the information needed to best weigh the advantages to Americans of the need for expenditures of foreign aid funds I will be called upon to review."

Ryan will return to the United States after a stop-over in Tokyo for discussions on Japanese-American trade.

There will be a media briefing on Ryan's return, and a Committee report on the findings and recommendations of the study mission will be published.

Ryan Names Aide

G.W. HOLSINGER

A reorganization of the staff of Congressman Leo J. Ryan, D-San Mateo, has been announced, effective Jan. 1.

Ryan's new administrative assistant will be G. W. (Joe) Holsinger, one of San Mateo County's best-known Democrats until moving to Southern California in 1971 and now taking his first full-time paid political office job.

Holsinger will replace Joseph Rees, Ryan's top staffer through his first term in Congress and who has been stationed in Washington, D.C. Rees has taken another job in Washington and the administrative assistant duties will be transferred to San Mateo, making it the larger of the two operations, Holsinger said.

Holsinger also will take over the functions of Steve Brummell, Ryan's press aide and field representative the past 18 months. Brummell, 28, also has resigned effective Jan. 1 to start a governmental relations firm called Pacific Consultants, which will be based in San Mateo.

Brummell said Ryan's new top aide in Washington, when hired, would be a legislative assistant. His job would be mainly on legislative matters, with all the casework being moved to San Mateo. "We can give more direct personal service here in the district," Holsinger said.

Ryan's San Mateo office itself also is to be moved after the first of the year, from the downtown San Mateo Post Office at Second Avenue and Ellsworth Street across the street to the Crocker Bank building, where there will be more space.

Beulah Stolpen's Rolling Reader

Learning to Read at Home Through Games

By MICHELLE CARTER
Post Staff Writer

A young mother hustled her pre-school children down the crowded aisle of Macy's Hillsdale store in the direction of the sounds of youngsters giggling and shouting for attention.

"Sounds like we're getting close to Santa Claus," she told her children. But as they rounded the corner, the source of the commotion turned out not to be Santa, but one of his special helpers.

Seated at a card table and surrounded by noisy children was Mrs. Beulah Harris Stolpen who was demonstrating her Rolling Reader games, or rather, who was explaining while the children were demonstrating. Although listed in "Leaders in Education", she has no college degrees and prefers to preserve her "just one parent to another" status in presenting her games.

Spread out on a tablecloth were the plastic blocks of the Rolling Phonics game. Mrs. Stolpen picked up two of them, held them next to each other and urged her pint-sized audience to read the newly formed word out loud.

Then she pulled six-year-old Bill around to her side of the table and rolled out seven blocks — each bearing a different word and asked him to make a sentence.

When he stumbled about a bit, she asked his mother if he could read. She nodded, "yes," looked a little embarassed and added, "But only the basics."

"Take that anxious look off your face. He's doing just what he's supposed to do," Mrs. Stolpen chided.

"Bill, can you read this word," she asked. The word was "mother" and he couldn't. "It's 'mother'. Look at it really close and now let's see if you can find it again."

She turned it over, and Bill found it immediately. Within minutes, Bill knew the word "mother" perfectly and soon was combining it with the simpler words already in his vocabulary to form a sentence. Gradually Mrs. Stolpen added other blocks with adverbs, adjectives and conjunctions on them to form a complex sentence.

Bill could read it, and there was no doubt that he wouldn't forget the word "mother" again.

Most important of all, he was having a great time.

The Rolling Reader (which Bill was using to form his sentence) and the Rolling Phonics are the corner blocks to the series of educational games that Mrs. Stolpen invented years ago to interest her own two sons in reading. Both sell for $5 and come in a plastic cylinder — perfect for slipping into Christmas stockings.

"The games not only solved their reading problems, but turned them on to reading." One son is a lawyer, and another now teaches reading.

She prefers to start youngsters out with the Rolling Reader to be supplemented later with the Rolling Phonics. The Rolling Reader uses the "look-say" method in which words are learned by sight rather than sounded out as in the phonics method.

"Look-say" gives children a feeling of ready reading something. "My mother bought a coat" means much more to a child than "mat, cat, fat, bat". But there's no denying that phonics is essential to effective reading.

As five-year-old Mark dumped out the cylinder full of blocks, she noted that more than a million sentences are possible from the seven cubes, and a legitimate sentence can be formed from every roll.

The games (including Rolling Geome-Tricks) are simplified versions of the educational games distributed to schools by Scott, Foresman and Co., publishers of textbooks.

As she challenged Mark to find a place in the sentence to put the word "pretty", Mrs. Stolpen, a resident of Westport, Conn., demonstrated some of the more subtle applications of the game.

"It's limitless according to use. You can do all the things listed on the instructions, but you will think of dozens of other ways to use it.

"The fact that it's helpful to children is misleading. It's just as good a game as any other."

Three-year-old Erin was having trouble with one of the shapes in Geome-Tricks so Mrs. Stolpen lifted her into her lap and talked quietly into her ear over the ruckus of the other children.

"Do you know what will happen if you don't get this right?" she asked.

Erin looked almost tearful when Mrs. Stolpen whispered, "Absolutely nothing," and hugged her close.

"Give your child the right to be wrong. It's the most essential gift of all."

'You Have to Be Nice, Even If They Kick You'

Man Behind the Beard

By BOB PETERSON
Santa has a split personality. Don't worry. This is not in the schizoid sense.

It's just that this time every year Santas can be found on every street corner or shopping area in the country.

A Times reporter talked with Jolly St. Nick at the Tanforan Park Shopping Center in San Bruno to learn how the red-cheeked fellow handles his chore.

In the shopping center mall, Santa busily answers the questions of the youngsters who sit upon his knee, as a camera clicks to preserve for later years this joyous occasion.

The expectation was to find someone in the tradition of Edmund Gwenn, who is fondly remembered as the department store Santa in the epic movie, Miracle on 34th Street.

In this case, the happy fellow was one of three young men — Tom Roach, Greg Collins or Gary Ewalt — depending which time of the day, or which day he was visited.

Edmund Gwenn has nothing on them, when it comes to spirit, ability and desire to maintain the dream of everyone who is young or young at heart.

At Tanforan, they share the same red outfit, complete with pillow and any wrinkles or stains left by the last visitor.

Why do it?

Roach, a 19-year-old South San Francisco youth who plans to study drama and theater at San Francisco State, said he's doing it for the acting experience.

"If I can act under these conditions, I can act under any conditions," he said. "You have to be nice, even if they kick you or pull your nose."

"The best kids are retarded kids," said Roach.

who has acted in one production at Hillbarn Theater. "They just want to hug you and love you."

Roach, who is experiencing his first year as Santa, said he found the actions of youngsters to vary a great deal. "Some hug you, others are scared to death. Some are violent and kick you in the shins. They grab the beard and wet on my knee."

He told of one unique experience where two 75-year-old women from England "just wanted to have their picture taken with Santa." There also was a picture with two giant white huskies.

Another experience was the time a three-year-old sat on his lap. "She was deaf and I really didn't know what to do," said Roach. "Then she kissed me on the nose," he added as if to say no verbal communication was necessary anyway.

When Roach rests, Collins dons the suit and whiskers. This 24-year-old Burlingame resident has done it before. He was Santa at the center three years ago.

"It changes you," he said. "You're no longer yourself. You're Santa. The kids look at you more than they do at a common person. You are a symbol of all that's good."

Collins said he applied for the Santa job since being laid off his job with a hospital supply company. "But this is a trip I really enjoy. I'd do it every year for the rest of my life."

This Santa has had his experiences, too. Like the time two long-haired youngsters climbed up on his knee. "I asked, How are you young girls doing? We're boys, they responded quickly and with a funny look," said Collins.

"There are lotsa ups and downs," admitted Collins, who, like the other two Santas was critical of parents who force their children to sit on Santa's knee against their desire to do so.

"Some parents should take courses on how to handle kids," he added. "They have no patience. They just want that picture taken."

Collins works weekends driving what could be considered the heaviest traffic times. "After about five hours

(which is the limit a Santa works in a shift) you want to get out of there and take off that mask," said Collins.

"Words get mixed up and I find myself asking 'did you brush your vegetables?'"

Collins said the job does at times get frustrating, particularly when babies are crying or afraid of Santa.

"I like to improvise, to make Santa a real person," said Collins. "I like to get the kids into it. I'm their dreams. When I put that costume on, I am Santa. I am Christmas."

Of the three who probably look the most like a Santa without the costume is 23-year-old Ewalt, a South San Franciscan who because of his regular work schedule "happen to have three extra days a week" free.

Ewalt, about 220 pounds and 5-foot-10 tall has a ruddy complexion and reddish hair. He doesn't have to use touches of makeup that is necessary to brighten the cheeks of his two counterparts.

"I watch every Santa special (on television)," said Ewalt. "You have to because they ask you so many questions." Ewalt is not, however, far removed from the legend of St. Nick.

"I think I loved him (Santa) like my grandfather. But 100 times better. He was a big highlight of my life," said Ewalt.

WILL THE REAL SANTA STAND UP

Two of the three young men who sit in as Santa at the Tanforan Shopping Center in San Bruno prepare for a day's duty. Greg Collins, right, helps Tom Roach into the familiar red jacket. Later the beard hanging from Roach's neck will be tied and in place, and then the rest of the costume goes on. Missing from the picture is the third Santa, Gary Ewalt, who was ill when this photo was being taken. But you'd recognize him anywhere. He's a jolly looking fat fellow with a long white beard and red suit and . . .
